Our Vision
A province where people find the supports they need.

Our Mission
A provincial network that shares leadership and builds connections to promote personalized support.
message from our PRSN Co-Chairs

Dear Stakeholder,

It has been an exciting year as we forge ahead to implement the key elements of our Strategic Plan. From 2002, respiteservices.com has been widely recognized as the primary resource for children and adults and their families to be connected to respite services across Ontario and beyond. So much so, that it has stimulated interest beyond respite to the Developmental Service sector for adults searching for personalized supports and additional service sectors such as senior services and mental health. We recognize that this tool is vital to coordinate service planning and its ability to adapt to meet the priorities of the Ministry directed Special Needs Strategy initiative and services and supports for adults through Developmental Services Ontario.

Upon the completion of our 3 year Strategic Plan, the Leadership team positively reflects on the significant strides made to achieve our strategic priorities. Steered by our goal to respond to the changing needs of our stakeholders (people who require support and their families, member agencies, community partners, regional and provincial levels of government, and our communities in whole) we underwent an extensive review and re-branding process. We recognized that it was important to keep the integrity of the tool we have come to rely on as the “go to” resource for personalized supports in Ontario and expand it to meet the needs of a more diverse population. With this in mind, supportsyourway.ca was unveiled at our May 2016 PRSN meeting. Supportsyourway.ca will allow host agencies and their community partners the ability to offer individuals and families more information about a wider range of services. All from one site.

We are eager to continue to advance with initiatives to meet the ever-changing needs of our stakeholders. Moving forward, the Leadership team is committed to ensuring that all host agencies value their membership with the PRSN and hope to continue to pave the way for easier networking and collaboration to deliver more effective services. We are excited to enter into the 2016/2017 year with the inauguration of supportsyourway.ca. It will be a busy year preparing the web tool, information and materials needed for current and future host members and their communities. It is wonderful to be a part of such a dynamic team with the common goal of connecting people to the supports they need to participate in a fulfilling life.

The Provincial Respite Services Network connects various agencies, including those funded by the Ministry of Community and Social Services and the Ministry of Children and Youth Services. The partners in the network collaborate to develop a more dynamic respite network for both children and adults in the province. The network has had significant success through province-wide promotion of a web-based tool to facilitate respite options.

PRSN core values

- Accountability: We are transparent and accountable for quality of service, collaboration, and partnerships. We are ethical in all that we do.
- Person-Centred Excellence: We will strive to ensure that each person supported, their families, and networks are informed and connected with the appropriate tools and supports to meet their individual needs and perspectives.
- Promoting Choice and Equity: We support choice and voice for all people and their families to have a quality of life equal to all.
- Inclusion: We foster inclusive communities that are accepting of all and give each member a voice.
- Responsiveness: We regularly evaluate our services and respond to the changing needs of our communities.
- Partnerships: We actively encourage and support partnerships with others in order to achieve our mission.
A Distributed Authority Model is used by the Provincial Respite Services Network.

where respiteservices.com came from...

In 2001 in Toronto, respiteservices.com was developed as a service collaborative for the planning and coordination of adult and children’s respite services, within the developmental services sector. It is a service delivery mechanism designed to make access to respite services easier for families and caregivers. This group developed a worker bank, access facilitation, an electronic directory of services and training opportunities for respite providers and families and system facilitation. In 2003 York region adopted respiteservices.com as both regions shared many of the same service providers. A project was developed in 2005 to make similar resources available to communities across the province. This project, called Strengthening our Partnerships Initiative, was funded by the Ministry of Finance, with support from the Ministry of Community and Social Services and the Ministry of Children and Youth Services.

This project was developed to deliver the following objectives:
• To develop or enhance a consistent system to manage and coordinate respite services through local developmental services and children’s services systems across the province
• To maximize efficient and effective use of respite resources
• Provide ease of access to information about respite services to families and caregivers and to increase their options for respite care
• To identify service gaps and support local service planning.

Geneva Centre for Autism, as a multi service agency and the host agency for rs.com in Toronto, led the development and implementation of this service from the beginning. It was selected to receive grant funds to move this initiative forward for the province. Each Provincial region decided how respiteservices.com was to be developed and supported in their area. The project was fully implemented by 2008.
The PRSN has gone through a strategic planning process to leverage past successes and develop a strategic plan that capitalizes on opportunities for deeper impact. The PRSN looks to expand its current service coverage beyond respite and to include services for other sectors such as but not limited to mental health, senior care as well as people with disabilities or those need supports that have private funding.

More and more of our funding dollars, both in social services and in health care are shifting to an individualized direct funding model. In this model, the focus is on the person themselves having a voice in how they are supported, how the funds are used and how the funds will promote a meaningful life in their community. This shift is shown in the development of direct funding for Passport funds, housing funds, supports for people with physical disabilities, and in some health care funds. It is a shift that is occurring worldwide. This shift started within the adult service sector but is also being reflected in the service models for children as well.

Later this year, there are plans to move forward to embrace a new umbrella identity to be known as SupportsYourWay.ca. This identity will enable communities to develop a wide range of direct supports through the web-based tool, that can include different populations, needs, age groups and service providers.
Introduction

Supports Your Way provides families, individuals and professionals with information and links to support services in local communities across Ontario.

Certain philosophical shifts within our developmental sector and the community at large called for the creation of an umbrella name to help lead us into the future. Supports Your Way stems from a commitment to help broaden our mission by more faithfully reflecting our evolving social, economic and cultural environment.

"A family from Australia reached out to me to assist them in finding a support person for their 14yr old son while visiting Ontario for a wedding. Their son had never travelled with them nor met some of his Ontario family before. The family did not want to leave their son behind or miss this wedding. The wedding activities were spread over a weekend and the family was looking for someone willing to stay at the resort and support their son at each function, allowing flexibility for him to participate to his own comfort level. I sent out an e-broadcast and was delighted to see a multitude of eager responses from CHAP (workerbank) wanting to assist this family. It was at that moment I knew that respireservices.com had unlimited potential and is able to reach out and positively impact the lives of so many."
